COMMENT ON SPORTS

By Pete Fritchie

Washington.- The boxing world is waiting for the Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio go late in March. This battle will be the final duel between these two slammers, and it may or may not be a good one.

If Robinson is going the way of Joe Louis, Jersey Joe Walcott and some of the others, staying for one fight too many, Basilio might treat him badly and end the thing in one-sided fashion. But Basilio did not put the then-champ away in the last one, and may not be able to do so on a second try.

We recall that wise old Jersey Joe Walcott, after losing to Ezzard Charles a couple of times, finally surprised everyone and caught him with a K. O. punch in the middle of a memorable fight. Ray is wise, like Jersey Joe, and has a lot of mileage under his belt, like old Joe.

He's smart enough in the ring to catch Carmen, if it can be done. But Carmen is probably a tougher nut to crack, comparatively, than was Ezzard Charles, whose jaw was susceptible. Carmen took the best Sugar Ray served at their last party and came on strong.

A lot depends, as in baseball, on the mental attitude of the opponents. If Carmen is confident and comes out to put Sugar Ray away, and doesn't hurry himself, he should win again. But if he is doubtful, if he gives the old ex-champ a chance, he might get a boxing lesson.

Usually Ray does better on the second go. So does Carmen. The present champ is a younger man and plenty tough. We'll string along with him on this one.

But he could lose it, and it's not an open and shut case. Robinson's best chance lies in weakening Basilio's resolve and confidence. He tried that last time with all sorts of publicity and manufactured mental warfare.

He's still trying it — witness his long wait before he announced he'd fight Carmen again.
